FROM KINGSTON.

REVIVAL—Y.M.C.A.—MILITARY COL-LEGE—GEOGRAPHY—VENNOR—MA-RINE COMMERCE.

A very encouraging revival meeting has been in progress for some time at the Sydenham St. Methodist Church, under the special charge of Revs. Messrs. Elliott and Allen. The attendance is well sustained, and the fervent appeals made by the speakers have not been in vain. A large number of penitents have presented themselves for prayers, and several have been made to rejoice in the redeeming love of Christ. One cannot help thinking, however, when witnessing the seeming indifference of so large a proportion of the audience that the Gospel Story has lost much of its charm in these degenerate days. The gaudy trappings of fashionable life, the idolatrous worship of money, and the slavish obedience to what is thought to be the dictates of society, leave little time or inclination for more serious thought. But, "physician, heal thyself," may be the answer to all this moralizing, so I'll pass on to another and kindred subject.

The branch of the Young Men's Christian Association established in this city has already accomplished much good, and gives promise of still better things to come. From the start the interest taken in the praiseworthy object by the Christian community has been most cheering, and at the present time the Association is in a very healthy state. The rooms, on Wellington Street, are spacious and well furnished with the leading papers, magazines and other desirable publications. A visit at any hour during the day and evening will be sufficient to show what is being done, and what use is made of the facilities for improvements so liberally provided. I have frequently found the Reading public highways are for the most part "heaped up and running over," or blowing over, and temporary roads are made through the fields. The ice was not sound when the snow came, and the heavy fall has depressed it in many places to such an extent as to render travelling over it anything but pleasant. Teams are being submerged daily, and we are ready at any moment to record a first-class accident, as necessity forces the people to hazard their own and horses lives.

Those "who go down to the sea in ships," and others more or less concerned in our marine commerce, are indulging hopeful anticipations of an improvement in their business on the opening of navigation. The outlook at present is more encouraging, and with the revival of trade everywhere, now confidently expected, why should the shipping interests longer languish? As you are aware Kingston largely depends on this branch of her industries for a favorable show, and during the past two years the experience has been far from what was desirable. It is proposed to erect two or more stationary elevators, of large capacity, in order that the expected increase in the grain trade, when the new Welland Canal is completed, may be better accommodated. An enterprise of this kind has been much needed for some time.

Mr. Editor:

I see by the Belleville papers that that place is likely to lose the large business now carried on there by our enterprising Mill Point firm, the Rathbuns, all apparently through excessive taxation and other restrictions imposed upon them by that municipality, which seems determined that no enterprise shall flourish there unless controlled by

I have frequently found the Reading Room well filled by an intelligent and respectable company of men and boys, many of whom were intently perusing the Bible and other religious works. Mr. George B. Meadows is the accomplished and gentlemanly Secretary, who is always present to instruct and counsel.

The examinations for admission to the new Military College have been held in the several divisions and the papers are now undergoing the test ordeal at head quarters. As anticipated, the unreasonable severity of the programme frightened nearly all the applicants from making the trial, and hence the utility of the movement will be limited to a precious small compass, for a time at least. Only one young gentleman had the nerve to face such music as would be ground out at this place, but how he came through I cannot say. I hope your Town Council will never come down to such a state of things as this, that enterprises from any outsider will not be as favorably received and entertained as though it originated with one of your citizens. We look to Napanee as our best grain market for this township, and trust your town will, by encouraging all kinds of manufacturing interests, give us farmers the benefit of prices caused by competition, and at the same time help build up the place, through that greatest of all agents, "the manufacturing interests."

In a late issue of the Weekly Globe
I find the following bit of local geography among the "Answers to Correspondents:"—

"J. M. M.—The isthmus connecting the county of Prince Edward with the county of Hastings is known locally as the "Carrying Place." It is not more than 15 yards wide at the narrowest part."

The isthmus known as the "Carrying Place" does not connect the county of Prince Edward with the county of Hastings, but with the county of Northumberland. The narrowest part is not 15 yards, but one mile and a half wide. With the exception of these trifling errors the geographical information conveyed by the Globe is sound. But, en passant, would it not be well for the Globe to take a few more lessons in this interesting branch of our common school education before assuming to lecture English and American writers upon their ignorance of the same? Whoever measured the distance across that isthmus for the Globe must have used an awfully elastic piece of tape, or else discovered indentations hitherto unknown. The inference is that he drew largely upon his imagination, without consulting any authority.

We came very near repudiating the supposed infallibility of our autocrat of the Weather Table, but that storm which began on the 15th, very early, and ended on the 16th, very late, redeemed him from disgrace. The snow is now deep enough in places to satisfy the hyperborean longings of an Esquimaux, and still we're not happy. The will not be as favorably received and entertained as though it originated

FROM ODESSA.

DEAR EXPRESS,

We had a visit from Mrs. Youmans, who's address, delivered in Napanee,
you reported in last week's EXPRESS.
She gave us three nights in different parts of the Township, doing us good service for the cause of temperance.
The Wednesday night meeting in Odessa was said to be the most successful of its kind, held here for several years. The C. M. Church was filled, over 600 persons coming out to listen to this talented lady, and that through one of the most disagreeable storms of the season. For an hour and a quarter she held her audience in wrapt attention while she plead with pathos and power with the people to help in ridding the country of this terrible scourge.

At Wilton on Thursday night she addressed another large audience, and was listened to with marked attention.

On Friday night she visited that well known "prohibition corner" of this Township (Switzerville), and though the notice of her coming was short, and it poured rain all day, until nearly night, yet a fair audience greeted her,
and she warmed their hearts into action, by her fervent appeals.

The visit of this lady at this time cannot but be of great service to the cause. Never before in the history of this township was there a more deep and settled conviction on the minds of thoughtful men of the utter failure of the license law to regulate or check the growth of intemperance. During the past two years, since the "Dunkin Bill" was defeated and Licenses were given, intemperance has been terribly on the increase. Every peacefully inclined citizen in Odessa has been distressed at the fearful length to which drunkenness, profanity, and gambling, in all its forms, with Sabbath breaking, are carried on in this place. All license restrictions have been ignored, and Boys of 12 and 14 years of age may be seen reeling through our streets, the victims of this destroyer. Almost any day you may witness free fights, and see the streets spotted with the blood of victims almost butchered by this rum fiend.

This "high carnival," thus kept up so constantly, has opened the eyes of many who thought that the traffic could be regulated, and now they, seeing the utter failure of it, have turned with all their might to stop this barter in the lives and characters of their neighbors.

We are looking for a signal and complete condemnation of this work at the polls on Friday the 25th inst., and have not the least doubt that if the actual friends of Prohibition will see that their own vote is recorded against the traffic, at the close of that election the Township will say with unmistakable earnestness, that no intoxicating liquors shall be legally sold in this Township.

A CAMDEN FANATIC PERVADES THE "EXPRESS" SANCTUM.

We had thought, that after the pains and expense we were to in assisting the authorities to find out the Sheffield Poet, the EXPRESS Office would be exempt, for a time at least, from any further invasion from the race of "fanatics" who are at large in this section of country. This time the outrage perpetrated on us hails from Camden, and the writer made good his escape, though our Devil, who saw him slip it under our door, is sure he could identify the man, unless he has washed himself since, which is not at all probable. ## LICENSES UNDER THE NEW ACT.

The new License Act continues in force the present Tavern, Shop, and other liquor licenses until the first day of May next. In order that this extension shall be obtained, it is requisite that every holder of a license must, between this and the 15th day of March next, pay to the Treasurer of the Municipality one-sixth of the fee paid last year taking a receipt to the Issuer of Licenses, and paying him one-sixth of the Provincial duty, he will endorse in the license an extension of time to the first of May next.

It will also be noticed that the duties of the present License Inspectors have ceased, and the Municipal Councils have nothing to do with regard to the extension of licenses.

EFFECTS OF LIQUOR ON THE BRAIN.

Long before the era of temperance ordinances and organizations, Hyrti, by far the greatest anatomist of the age, used to say that he could distinguish, in the darkest room, by one stroke of the scalpel, the brain of the inebriate from that of the man who lived soberly. Now and then he would congratulate his class upon the possession of a drunkards brain, admirably fitted, from its hardness and more complete perservation, for the purpose of demonstration. When the anatomist wishes to preserve a human brain for any length of time, he effects that object by keeping that organ in a vessel of alcohol. From a soft, pulpy substance it then becomes comparatively hard; and so, too, before death, the use of alcohol causes the induration of the delicate and gossamer-like tissues.

"THE PRAYER OF THE PUBLICANS OF CAMDEN."

Said prayer to be offered up in our bar-room altars before going to open on the 15th, 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th and 15th of March, with the Unbelievers who desire to break down the altars of our great god Mammon, before whom the world is almost all bowed down, at present for love of gain:

O Mammon, our god, hear the petitions that we unitedly, with all our fraternity, offer now unto thee, for we know that thou art mighty in pulling down the strong-holds of temperance and discomfiting those wicked Dunkinists who in these last days have risen up against us. Thou knowest very well those who love not our calling, in all creeds and classes of men. Wilt thou be pleased to turn the hearts of all our enemies, that we may still have liberty of conscience, and those valuable privileges that we have so long enjoyed:—the power to vend all intoxicating liquors to all men, women and children, whether their money be the price of home or lands, or the gain of toil, or theft, or otherwise.

O Mammon, hear us in our requests, and in this our time of danger, for our great trust is in thee, to help us against all of our enemies who have risen up against us, and whose numbers are daily increasing. If these cold-water-men prevail, they will break down these thine altars, and destroy our power to make Sabbath breakers, inherit thy kingdom. FIRE-PROOF JOIST.—An ingenious kind of fire-proof joist recently introduced, consists of a piece of wood five inches wide, by five-eighths of an inch thick belted between two flanged strips of quarter inch iron, making a beam quite as strong as those of wood ordinarily employed. The iron sides, in addition to affording it strength, it is claimed, render the joist substantially fire-proof, while the centre of wood affords the means of putting down floors and nailing on laths in the usual manner. The impediment to the manufacture of these joists heretofore, has been the difficulty of rolling the flanged iron sides, but this has now been successfully overcome.

He says it has been revealed by the "Spirit of the Lord," to the Church of God, in Listowel: that at midnight, on the first day of March, 1876, shall appear, "the sign of the Son in the Heaven;" and on the first day of April, at twenty minutes past four, morning, The Lord Himself shall descend from Heaven, to raise the dead, and change the living!" It will require no revelation, however, to declare that Mitchel is the biggest April fool in the country.

—The Quebec Corporation officials are just now putting on the screws in the collection of city revenue, and unfortunate debtors are being summoned by scores to pay up.

nated that we unitedly, with all our fraternity, offer now unto thee, for we know that thou art mighty in pulling down the strong-holds of temperance and discomfiting those wicked Dunkinists who in these last days have risen up against us. Thou knowest very well those who love not our calling, in all creeds and classes of men. Wilt thou be pleased to turn the hearts of all our enemies, that we may still have liberty of conscience, and those valuable privileges that we have so long enjoyed:—the power to vend all intoxicating liquors to all men, women and children, whether their money be the price of home or lands, or the gain of toil, or theft, or otherwise.

O Mammon, hear us in our requests, and in this our time of danger, for our great trust is in thee, to help us against all of our enemies who have risen up against us, and whose numbers are daily increasing. If these cold-water-men prevail, they will break down these thine altars, and destroy our power to make Sabbath breakers, inherit thy kingdom. We will be unable to replenish poor houses, and prisons, and thou well knowest we have not spared even our own flesh and blood in sacrifice freely for thy sake. We are doing our duty, even to the sending of our spies into the Temples of the cold-water fanatics, that their most secret proceedings against us may be made known on the house tops, and that the weak ones may be persuaded then how unjust it would be to take from us our birth-right. O wilt thou be pleased to be to our spies' mouths and wisdom, for their and our sakes who love and serve thee, night and day. O Mammon, we are no hypocrits; we serve no other god but thee, and are ready at all times, and in all places, to ensnare the weak ones, and to stir up strife against those who would put our craft in danger.

Deliver us from the cry of vengeance that is made against us by silly women and foolish children, who say that by our trade they have been widowed; and orphaned, and paupered; and as we look to thee supply us in pocket and in store to stir up the minds of the electors at the polls to believe that there will be no market for their grain, or no revenue for the public treasury, if this our craft is not allowed to have free course, and be licensed.

And, lastly, subvert our Councillors and all who love office, and indelibly stamp it on their hearts that we, thy servants and our associates, will rise up against them in coming elections and put them to confusion and shame, unless they vote down and destroy these devices of the Dunkinists. O Mammon, show them thy great strength in this our hour of distress, and deliver us from their hands, and we will make merry, and stagger and fall down before our enemies in great joy at their defeat, and we will go on, as ever before, in bringing our friends and supporters to thee, not sparing our kinsmen and friends for thy sake."

FIRE-PROOF JOIST.—An ingenious kind of fire-proof joist recently introduced, consists of a piece of wood five inches wide, by five-eighths of an inch thick belted between two flanged strips of quarter inch iron, making a beam quite as strong as those of wood ordinarily employed. The iron sides, in addition to affording it strength, it is claimed, render the joist substantially fire-proof, while the centre of wood affords the means of putting down floors and nailing on laths in the usual manner. The impediment to the manufacture of these joists heretofore, has been the difficulty of rolling the flanged iron sides, but this has now been successfully overcome.

PRINCE EDWARD RAILWAY.—A Picton telegram says: The County Council of Prince Edward met to-day pursuant to adjournment, for the ostensible purpose of repealing the By-law passed on November 13th, 1872, granting the sum of $87,500 in aid of the Prince Edward County Railway, but to their surprise found an injunction had been granted to restrain them from intermeddling with it, and after talking a good deal, adjourned to meet some other day in the future on the call of the Warden."

CAMP MEETING GROUNDS.—We clip the following from the "Recorder":—"The Committee appointed by the Bay of Quinte Conference of the M. E. Church, have purchased camp meeting grounds on the banks of the St. Lawrence, situated about 5½ miles above Brockville. The grounds are well adapted for the object intended, and will, on the opening of navigation, be fitted up in a manner which will reflect the greatest credit upon the Committee in charge. The land procured has been paid for, and no debt, therefore, hangs over the Association. The lots will be immediately surveyed and will be offered for sale at prices ranging from $10 and $15 to $25, according to location. The construction of the wharf has been decided upon. The location is convenient, and the movement well deserves the hearty encouragement, not only of the citizens of Brockville, but also of Central Canada. Business men will find the grounds a pleasant summer place to spend a few weeks for relaxation, and for camping out purposes for families who desire fresh air, good scenery and pleasant company. We know of no place its equal."

FIFTH AVENUE BELLE.

Room for the lovely
Fifth Avenue belle !
Eyes like the star-light,
Skin like a shell.
Roses and lilies
Nest in her hair,
Shamed by the forehead
Faultlessly fair.

Room on the Avenue !
Room for the belle !
Manhood, bow lowley,
Under the spell ;
Winds, kiss her softly,
Waves, still your flow ;
Hide your head, sorrow,
Sin, whisper low.

Sleep, to her pillow
Give a child's rest ;
Gold, buy her raiment
To fold her soft breast ;
Love, clasp her to thee,
And seal with a kiss,
Crave she, I wonder,
Life better than this.

Nay, in the dances
Soft whispers creep ;
"Life is not living.
Death is not sleep."
Through the gold lattice
Still the soul peers.
Under the purple.
Palpitate fears.

Room on the Avenue !
Hear you the knell ?
Room for the lovely
Fifth Avenue belle !
Waxen hands folded,
Eyes lidded now,
Roses unruffled
On bosom and brow.

What is the value
Of belle-hood to-day ?
Down on the Avenue
Death knows the way.
Whisper, oh ! casket,
Lone lying there,
"Where went thy tenant, Young and so fair ?"

up with a weak show of protest, and looking gravely into the fire. "I was up there once, and there was candles on the altar, to be sure, but they were not lighted."

"They are lighted," said Mrs. Wouwermans, with awful precision. "I've been up there myself and seen them. Now, how can you let your children run at loose ends so, Nelly ? I only wish you had heard the sermon this morning. He showed the danger of running into Popery ; and it really was enough to make one's blood run cold to hear how those infidels are attacking the church, carrying all before them ; and then to think that the only true church should be all getting divided and mixed up and running after Romanism ! It's perfectly awful."

"Well, I don't know what we can do," said Mrs. Van Arsdel, helplessly.

"And we've got both kinds of trouble in our family. Eva's husband is reading all What's his name's works—that evolution man, and all that ; and then Eva and the girls going after this St. John—and he's leading them as straight to Rome as they can go."

Poor Mrs. Van Arsdel was somewhat fluttered by this alarming view of the case, and clasped her pretty, fat, white hands, that glittered with rings like lilies with dew-drops, and looked the image of gentle, incapable perplexity.

"I don't believe Harry is an infidel," she said at last. "He has to read Darwin and all these things, because he has to talk about them in the magazine ; and as to Mr. St. John—you know Eva is delicate and can't walk so far as our church, and this is right round the corner from here ; and Mr. St. John is a good man. He does ever so much for the poor, and almost supports a mission there ; and the Bishop doesn't forbid him, and if the Bishop thought there was any danger, he would."

"Well, I can't think, for my part, what our Bishop can be thinking of," said Aunt Maria, who was braced up to an extraordinary degree by the sermon of the morning. "I don't see how he can let them go on so—with candles, and processions, and heathen robes, and all that. I'd process 'em out of the church in quick time. If I were he, I'd have all that sort of trumpery cleaned out at once ; for just see where it leads to ! I may not be as good a Christian as I ought to be—we all have

"Oh, well, the Davenports were there, and the Livingstons, and of course Polly Elmore, with her tribe, looking like birds of Paradise. The amount of time and money and thought that family gives to dress is enormous. John Davenport stopped and spoke to me coming out of the church. He says, 'Seemsto me, Mrs. Wouwermans, your young ladies have deserted us ; you mustn't suffer them to stay from the fold, says he. I saw he had his eyes on our pew when he first came into church.'"

"I think, Maria, you really are quite absurd in your suspicions about that man," said Mrs. Van Arsdel. "I don't think there's anything in it."

"Well, just wait now and see. I know more about it than you do. If only Alice manages her cards right, she can get that man."

"Alice will never manage cards for any purpose. She is too proud for that. She hasn't a bit of policy."

"And there was that Jim," she allows waiting on her home. I met him this morning, just as I turned the corner."

"Well, Alice tries to exert a good influence over Jim, and has got him to teach in Mr. St. John's Sunday-school."

"Fiddlesticks ! What does he care for Sunday-school ?"

"Well, the girls all say that he does nicely. He has more influence over that class of boys than anybody else would."

"Likely ! Set a rogue to catch a rogue," said Aunt Maria. "Its his being seen so much with Alice that I'm thinking of. You may depend upon it, it has a bad effect."

Mrs. Van Arsdel dreaded the setting of her sister's mind in this direction, so by way of effecting a diversion she rang and inquired when tea would be ready. As the door opened, the sound of very merry singing came up stairs. Angelique was seated at the piano and playing tunes out of one of the Sunday-school manuals, and the whole set were singing with might and main. Jim's tenor could be heard above all the rest.

"Why, is that fellow here ?" said Aunt Maria.

"Yes," said Mrs. Van Arsdel ; "he very often stays at tea with us Sunday nights, and he and the girls sing hymns

Of course there was resistance and conflict, and more life in the old church than it had known for years ; but the conflict became at last so wearisome that, on Mr. Cushing's return from Europe, the young angel spread his wings and fled away to a more congenial parish in a neighboring city. But many in whom his labors had wakened a craving for something real and earnest in religion strayed off to other churches, and notably the younger members of the Van Arsdel family, to the no small scandal of Aunt Maria.

The Van Arsdel pew was a perfect fort and intrenchment of respectability. It was a great high, square wall-pew, well cushioned and ample, with an imposing array of prayer-books ; there was room in it for a regiment of saints, and here Aunt Maria sat on this pleasant Sunday listening to the dangers of the church, all alone. She felt, in a measure, like Elijah the Tishbite, as if she only were left to stand up for the altars of her faith.

Mrs. Wouwermans was not a person to let an evil run on very far without a protest. "While she was musing the fire burned," and when she had again mounted in the pew at afternoon service, and still found herself alone, she resolved to clear her conscience ; and so she walked straight up to Nelly's, to see why none of them were at church.

"It's a shame, Nelly, a perfect shame ! There wasn't a creature but myself in our pew to-day, and good Dr. Cushing giving such a sermon this morning !"

This to Mrs. Van Arsdel, whom she found luxuriously ensconced on a sofa drawn up before the fire in her bedroom.

"Ah, well, the fact is, Maria, I had such a headache this morning," replied she, plaintively.

I may not be as good a Christian as I ought to be—we all have our short-comings—but one thing I know, I do hate the Catholics and all that belongs to them ; and I'd no more have such goings on in my diocese, than I'd have moths in my carpet ! I'd sweep 'em right out !" said Aunt Maria, with a gesture as if she held the bosom of destruction.

Mrs. Wouwermans belonged to a not uncommon class of Christians, whose evidences of piety are more vigorous in hating than loving. There is no manner of doubt that she would have made good her word, had she been a bishop.

"Oh, well, Maria," said Mrs. Van Arsdel, drawing her knit zephyr shawl about her with a sort of consolatory movement, and settling herself cosily back on her sofa, "It's evident that the Bishop doesn't see just as you do, and I am content to allow what he does. As to the girls, they are old enough to judge for themselves, and, besides, I think they are doing some good by teaching in that mission school. I hope so, at least. Any way, I couldn't help it if I would. But, do tell me, did Mrs. Demas have on her new bonnet ?"

"Yes, she did," said Aunt Maria, with vigor ; "and I can tell you it's a perfect fright, if it did come from Paris. Another thing I saw—friends have come round again ! Mrs. Lar-mar's new cloak was trimmed with fringe."

"You don't say so," said Mrs. Van Arsdel, contemplating at the possible consequences of this change. "There was another reason why I couldn't go out this morning," she added, rather

"Hymns !" said Aunt Maria. "I should call that a regular jollification that they are having down here."

"Oh, well, Maria, they are singing children's tunes out of one of the little Sunday-school manuals. You know children's tunes are so different from old-fashioned psalm tunes !"

Just then the choir below struck up

"Forward, Christian soldier,"

with a marching energy and a vivacity that was positively startling, and, to be sure, not in the least like the old, long-drawn, dolorous strains once supposed to be peculiar to devotion. In fact, one of the greatest signs of progress in our modern tunes is the bursting forth of religious thought and feeling in childhood and youth in strains gay and airy as hope and happiness—melodies that might have been learned of those bright little "fowls of the air," of whom the Master bade us take lessons, so that a company of wholesome, healthy, right-minded young people can now get together and express themselves in song of joy, and hope, and energy, such as childhood and youth ought to be full of.

"Ah, well, Maria, my husband, poor man, gets so tired and worn out with his week's work, I haven't a heart to get him up early enough for morning service. Mr. Van Arsdel isn't feeling quite well lately; he hasn't been out at all to-day."

"Well, there are the girls, Alice and Angelique and Maria, where are they? All going up to that Popish, ritualistic chapel, I suppose. It's too bad. Now, that's all the result of Mr. Simon's imprudence. I told you, in the time of it, just what it would lead to. It leads straight to Rome, just as I said. Mr. Simons set them a-going, and now he is gone, and they go where they have lighted candles on the altar every Sunday, and Mr. St. John prays with his back to them, and has processions, and wears all sorts of heathenish robes; and your daughters go there, Nelly."

"There was another reason why I couldn't go out this morning," she added, rather irrelevantly—"I had no bonnet. Adrienne couldn't get the kind of ruche necessary to finish it till next week, and the old one is too shabby. Were the Stuyvesants out?"

"Oh, yes, in full force. She has the same bonnet she wore last year, done over with a new feather."

"Oh, well, the Stuyvesants can do as they please," said Mrs. Van Arsdel; "everybody knows who they are, let them wear what they will."

"Emma Stuyvesant had a new Paris hat and a saque trimmed with ballion fringe," continued Aunt Maria. "I thought I'd tell you, because you can use what was on your velvet dress over again; it's just as good as ever."

"So I can"—and for a moment the great advantage of going punctually to church appeared to Mrs. Van Arsdel. "Did you see Sophie Sidney?"

"Yes. She was gorgeous in a mauve suit with hat to match; but she has gone on terribly in her looks—yellow as a lemon."

"Who else did you see?" said Mrs. Van Arsdel, who liked to topic on conversation better than the dangers of the church.

It was the little children in the temple who cried, "Hosanna to the Son of David," when chief priests and scribes are scowling and saying, "Master, forbid them," and doubtless the same dear Master loves to hear these child-songs as then.

At all events, our little party were having a gay and festive time over two or three new collections of Clarion, Golden Chain, Golden Shower, or what not, of which Jim had brought a pocketful for the girls to try, and certainly the melodies as they came up were bright and lively and pretty enough to stir one's blood pleasantly. In fact, both Aunt Maria and Mrs. Van Arsdel were content for a season to leave the door open and listen.

"You see," said Mrs. Van Arsdel, Jim is such a pleasant, convenient, obliging fellow, and has done so many civil turns for the family, that we quite make him at home here; we don't mind him at all. It's a pleasant thing, too, and a convenience, now the boys are gone, to have some young man that one feels perfectly free with to wait on the girls; and where there are so many of them, there's less danger of anything particular. There's no earthly danger were of Alice's being specially interested in Jim. He isn't at all the person she would ever think seriously of, though she likes him as a friend."

Mrs. Wouyermans apparently acquiesced for the time in this reasoning, but secretly resolved to watch appearances narrowly this evening, and if she saw what warranted the movement, to take the responsibility of the case into her own hands forthwith. Her perfect immutable and tranquil certainty that she was the proper person to manage anything within the sphere of her vision, gave her courage to go forward, in spite of the fears and remonstrances of any who might have claimed that they were parties concerned.

Mr. Jim Fellows was one of those persons in whom a sense of humour operates as a subtle lubricating oil through all the internal machinery of the mind, causing all, which might otherwise have jarred or grated, to slide easily. Many things which would be a torture to more earnest people were to him a source of amusement. In fact, humour was so far a leading faculty that it was difficult to keep him within limits of propriety and decorum, and prevent him from racing off at unsuitable periods like a kitten after a pine-ball, skipping over all solemnities of etiquette and decorum. He had not been so long intimate in the family without perfectly taking the measure of so very active and forthputting a member as Aunt Maria. He knew exactly—as well as if she had told him—how she regarded him, for his knowledge of character was not the result of study, but that sort of clear sight, which, in persons of quick perceptive organs, seems like a second sense. He saw into persons without an effort, and what he saw for the most part only amused him.

He perceived immediately on sitting down to tea that he was under the glance of Mrs. Wouyermans' watchful and critical eye, and the result was that he became full and ready to boil over with wicked drollery. With an apparently grave face, without passing the limits of the most ceremonious politeness and decorum, he contrived, by a thousand fleeting indescribable turns and sliding intonations and adroit movements to get all the girls into a tempest of suppressed gaiety. There at the present occasion, when she found herself walking in the streets of New York alone in the evening with a young man who treated her with flattering deference, it would not but strike her as a providential opportunity not to be neglected of fulfilling her long-cherished intentions and giving a sort of wholesome check and caution to the youth. So she began with infinite adroitness to prepare the way. Jim, the while, who saw perfectly what she was aiming at, assisting her in the most obliging manner.

After passing through sundry truisms, about the necessity of caution and regarding appearances, and thinking what people will say to this and that, she proceeded to inform him that the report was in circulation that he was engaged to Alice.

"The report does me entirely too much honor," said Jim.

"But of course if Miss Alice isn't disposed to deny it, I am not."

"Of course Miss Alice's friends will deny it," said Aunt Maria, decisively.

"I merely mentioned it to you that you may see the need of caution. You know, of course, Mr. Fellows, that such reports stand in the way of others who might be disposed—well, you understand."

"Oh, perfectly, exactly, quite so," said Jim, who could be profuse of his phrases on occasion, "and I'm extremely obliged to you for this suggestion; undoubtedly your great experience and knowledge of the ways of society will show you the exact way to deal with such things."

"You see," pursued Mrs. Wouyermans, in a confidential tone, "there is at present a person every way admirable and desirable, who is thinking very seriously of Alice; it's quite confidential, you know; but you must be aware—of the danger."

"I perceive—a blight of the poor fellow's budding hopes and early affections," said Jim, fluently; "well, though of course the very suggestion of such a report in regard to me is flattery far beyond my deserts, so that I can't be annoyed by it, still I should be profoundly sorry to have it occasion any trouble to Miss Alice."

"I felt sure that you wouldn't be offended with me for speaking so very plainly. I hope you'll keep it entirely

It required a scaffolding made of a chair and an ottoman to reach the top of the pictures, and a tack-hammer and little tacks. Then the precise air of arrangement and exact position had to be studied from below, after the tacks were driven, and that necessitated two or three descents from the perch to review, and the tumbling of the ottoman to the floor, and the calling of Mary in to help, and to hold the ottoman firm while the persevering little artist finished her work. It is by ups and downs like these, by daily labour of modern Eves, each in their little paradises, O ye Adams! that your houses have that "just right" look that makes you think of them all day, and long to come back to them at night.

"Somehow or other," you say, "I don't know how it is, my wife's things have a certain air; her vines grow just in the right places, and her parlors always look pleasant." You don't know how many periods of grave consideration, how many climbings on chairs and ottomans, how many doings and undoings and shiftings and changes produce the appearance that charms you. Most people think that flower vases are very simple affairs; but the keeping of parlors dressed with flowers is daily work for an hour or two for any woman. Nor is it work in vain. No altar is holier than the home altar, and the flowers that adorn it are sacred.

Eva was sitting, a little tired with strenuous exertions, contemplating her finished arrangements with satisfaction, when the door-bell rang, and Alice came in.

"Why Alice, dear, how nice of you to be down here so early! I was just wanting somebody to show my changes to. Look there. See how I've looped that ivy round mother's picture; isn't it sweet?" and Eva caressingly arranged a leaf or two to suit her.

"Charming!" said Alice, but with rather an abstracted, preoccupied tone.

"And look at this nasturtium; it is full of buds. See the yellow is beginning to show. I've fastened it in a wreath around the window, so that the sun will shine through the blossoms."

"It's beautiful," said Alice, still absently and nervously playing with her bonnet strings.

the measure of so very active and torturing putting a member as Aunt Maria. He knew exactly—as well as if she had told him—how she regarded him, for his knowledge of character was not the result of study, but that sort of clear sight, which, in persons of quick perceptive organs, seems like a second sense. He saw into persons without an effort, and what he saw for the most part only amused him.

He perceived immediately on sitting down to tea that he was under the glance of Mrs. Wouwermans' watchful and critical eye, and the result was that he became full and ready to boil over with wicked drollery. With an apparently grave face, without passing the limits of the most ceremonious politeness and decorum, he contrived, by a thousand fleeting indescribable turns and sliding intonations and adroit movements to get all the girls into a tempest of suppressed gaiety. There are wicked rogues known to us all who have this magical power of making those around them burst out into indiscreet sallies of laughter, while they retain the most edifying and innocent air of gravity. Seated next to Aunt Maria, Jim managed, by most devoted attention and reverential listening, to draw from her zealous analysis of the morning sermon which she gave with the more heat and vigour, hoping thereby to reprove the stray sheep who had thus broken boundaries.

Her views of the danger of modern speculation, and her hearty measures for its repression, were given with an earnestness that was from the heart.

"I can't understand what anybody wants to have these controversies for, and listen to these infidel philosophers. I never doubt. I never have doubted. I don't think I have altered an iota of my religious faith since I was seven years old; and if I had the control of things, I'd put a stop to all this sort of fuss."

"You then would side with his Holiness, the Pope," said Jim. "That's precisely the ground of his last allocation,"

"No, indeed, I shouldn't. I think Popery is worse yet—it's terrible! Dr. Cushing showed that this morning, and it's the greatest danger of our day; and I think that Mr. St. John of yours is nothing more than a decoy duck to lead you all to Rome. I went up there once and saw 'em genuflecting, and turning to the east, and burning candles, and that's all I want to know about them."

ly obliged to you for this suggestion; undoubtedly your great experience and knowledge of the ways of society will show you the exact way to deal with such things."

"You see," pursued Mrs. Wouwermans, in a confidential tone, "there is at present a person every way admirable and desirable, who is thinking very seriously of Alice; it's quite confidential, you know; but you must be aware—of the danger."

"I perceive—a blight of the poor fellow's budding hopes and early affections," said Jim, fluently; "well, though of course the very suggestion of such a report in regard to me is flattery far beyond my deserts, so that I can't be annoyed by it, still I should be profoundly sorry to have it occasion any trouble to Miss Alice."

"Oh, certainly," said Jim, with the most cheerful good will. "When ladies with your tact and skill in human nature talk to us young fellows you never give offence. We take your frankness as a favour."

Mrs. Wouwermans smiled with honest pride. Had she not been warned against talking to this youth as something that was going to be of most explosive tendency? How little could Nelly, or Eva, or any of them, appreciate her masterly skill! She really felt in her heart disposed to regret that so docile a pupil, one so appreciative of her superior abilities, was not a desirable matrimonial parti. Had Jim been a youth of fortune she felt that she could have held up both hands for him.

"He really is agreeable," was her thought, as she shut the door upon him.

CHAPTER XII.

WHY CAN'T THEY LET US ALONE?

Harry went out to his office, and Eva commenced the morning labours of a young housekeeper.

What are they? Something in their way as airy and pleasant as the light touches and arrangements which Eva gave to her bower in Paradise—gathering up stray rose-leaves, tying up a lily that the rain has bent, looping a honeysuckle in a more graceful festoon, and meditating the while whether she shall have oranges and figs and grapes, or guavas and pineapples, for her first

"It's beautiful," said Alice, still absently and nervously playing with her bonnet strings.

"Why, darling, what's the matter?" said Eva, suddenly noticing signs of some unusual feeling. "What ails you?" "Well," said Alice, hastily untying her bonnet strings and throwing it down on the sofa, "I've come up to talk with you—I hope," she said, flushing crimson with vexation, "that Aunt Maria is satisfied now; she is the most exasperating woman I ever knew or heard of!"

"Dear me, Allie, what has she done now?"

"Well, what do you think? Last Sunday she came to our house to tea, drawn up in martial array and ready to attack us all for not going to the old church—that stupid, dead old church, where people do nothing but doze and wake up to criticise each other's bonnets—but you really would think to hear Aunt Maria talk that there was a second Babylonian captivity or something of that sort coming on, and we were getting it up. You see, Dr. Cushing has got excited because some of the girls are going up to the mission church, and it's led him to an unwanted exertion; and Aunt Maria quite waked up and considers herself an apostle and prophet. I wish you could have heard her talk. It's enough to make any cause ridiculous to have one defend it as she did. You ought to have heard that witch of a Jim Fellows arguing with her and respectfully leading her into all sorts of contradictions and absurdities till I stopped him. I really wouldn't let him lead her to make such a fool of herself."

"Oh, well, if that's all, Allie, I don't

"But the east is a perfectly harmless point of the compass," said Jim, with suavity; "and though I don't want candles in the daytime myself, yet I don't see what harm it does anybody to burn them."

"Why, that's just what the Catholics do," said Mrs. Wouwermans.

"Oh, that's it, is it!" said Jim, with a submissive air. "Mustn't we do any thing that Catholics do?"

"No, indeed," said Aunt Maria, falling into the open trap affecting naivete.

"Then we mustn't pray at all," said Jim.

"Oh, pshaw! of course I didn't mean that. You know what I mean."

"Certainly, ma'am I think I understand," said Jim, while Alice, who had been looking reprovingly at him, led off the subject into another strain.

But Mrs. Wouwermans was more gracious to Jim that evening than usual, and when she rose to go home that young gentleman offered his attendance, and was accepted with complacency.

Mrs. Wouwermans, in a general way, believed in what is called Providence. That is to say, when any little matter fell out in a manner exactly opposite to any of her schemes, she called it providential.

Something in their way as airy and pleasant as the light touches and arrangements which Eva gave to her bower in Paradise—gathering up stray rose-leaves, tying up a lily that the rain has bent, looping a honey-suckle in a more graceful festoon, and meditating the while whether she shall have oranges and figs and grapes, or guavas and pineapples, for her first course at dinner.

Such, according to Father Milton, were the ornamental duties of the first wife, while her husband went out to his office in some distant part of Eden.

But Eden still exists whenever two young lovers set up housekeeping, even in prosaic New York; only our modern Eves wear jaunty little morning caps and fascinating wrappers and slippers, with coquettish butterfly bows. Eva's morning duties consisted in asking Mary what they had better have for dinner, giving here and there a peep into the pantry, re-arranging the flower vases, and flecking the dust from her pictures and statuettes with a gay and glancing brush of peacock's feathers. Sometimes the morning arrangements included quite a change; as, this particular day, when, on mature consideration, a spray of ivy that was stretching towards the window had been drawn back and forced to wreath itself around a picture, and a spray of nasturtium, gemmed with half-opened golden buds, had been trained in its place in the window.

One may think this a very simple matter, but whoever knows all the resistance which the forces of matter and the laws of gravitation make to the simplest improvement in one's parlour, will know better.

"Dear me, Allie, what has she done now?"

"Well, what do you think? Last Sunday she came to our house to tea, drawn up in martial array and ready to attack us all for not going to the old church—that stupid, dead old church, where people do nothing but doze and wake up to criticise each other's bonnets—but you really would think to hear Aunt Maria talk that there was a second Babylonian captivity or something of that sort coming on, and we were getting it up. "Oh, well, if that's all, Allie, I don't think you need to trouble your head," said Eva. "Aunt Maria, of course, will hold on to her old notions, and her style of argument never was very consecutive."

"But that isn't all. Oh, you may be sure I didn't care for what she said about the church. I can have my opinion and she hers, on that point."

"Well, then, what is the matter?"

"Well, if you'll believe me, she has actually undertaken to tutor Jim Fellows in relation to his intimacy with me."

"Oh, Alice," groaned Eva, "has she done that? I begged and implored her to let that matter alone."

"Then she's been talking to you, too! and I wonder how many more," said Alice in tones of disgust.

"Yes, she did talk with me in her usual busy imperative way, and told me all that Mrs. Thus-and-so and Mr. This-and-that said—but people are always saying things, and if they don't say one they will another. I tried to persuade her to let it alone, but she seemed to think you must be talked with; so I finally told her that if she'd leave it to me I would say all that was necessary. I did mean to say something, but I didn't want to trouble you. I thought there was no hurry."

"Well, you see," said Alice, "Jim went home with her that night, and I suppose she thought the opportunity too good to be neglected. I don't know just what she said to him, but I know it was about me."

GENTLE WORDS AND LOVING SMILES.

The sun may warm the grass's life;
The dew, the drooping flower,
And eyes grow bright and watch the light

Of autumn's opening hour :

But words that breathe of kindness,
And smiles we know are true,
Are warmer than the summer time,
And brighter than the dew.

It is not much the world can give,
With all its subtle art,
And gold and gems are not the thing
To satisfy the heart.

But oh, if those who cluster round
The altar of the hearth,
Have gentle words and loving smiles,
How beautiful is earth !

BETTER THAN IMMIGRATION.

Much money is spent to promote immigration to this country, and for the most part we fear it is a foolish expenditure. Very few come to us and many of these do not stay. The first generation at least of those who do settle among us, do not fit well into our modes and habits, and though among us, seldom are of us. It would be much wiser, in view of the ceaseless emigration from our Province, to devise some way by which our people may be induced to remain in the land of their nativity. Nay, if we could only turn the tide and bring back our young men and women who have left us for other countries, this were a consummation devoutly to be wished. Would that our legislators and patriots (if any of this latter species still exists) might cease their political squabble and turn their attention to the development of this country.

But the thing we propose as better than immigration is to reclaim men from drunkenness and plant their feet on the solid ground of total abstinence. Convert a drunkard into a total abstainer and you have given your country a new man. This is the correct way to multiply the population. Make a man a total abstainer and when you take the census he may be counted in, but what right have you to count in the drunkard? Why at best he is only a drag on society, a source of expense and constant annoyance, and a disgrace to the community.

THE HOME FATHER.

The Home Father is one whose coming causes happy hearts to beat faster, and bright eyes to become brighter, and little feet to run pattering out to meet him, and childish voices to shout his name. When he enters his dwelling, a sun-beam seems to enter it, and his presence imparts a gleam of happiness even to the sick chamber and soothes the bed of pain. The tavern, the reading room, or the club, have no attractions for him, because his family cannot accompany him. His heart is centred in those dear ones who surrounded his heart; and though no costly furniture adorns his room, it matters not, he is rich! His wealth lies in the hearts he has made happy! His little ones crowd around him, and recount the wonders and events of the day; and the little flaxen-haired, blue-eyed baby lays his soft rosy cheek beside the rough bearded face of papa, and is not at all afraid. How patiently the strong man listens to all the wonderful nothing they have to tell him, and smiles at the tricks of the roly-poly things as they caper around him. And how proud and grateful he is that God has entrusted the happiness of so many of his creatures to his keeping. He carries his happiness in his heart, and needs no bacchanalian songs, and loud debates, or operatic music to stimulate him.

A SHEEP'S TEETH.

I often hear persons disputing about the age of a sheep, to my surprise, be it said. For them to tell the age of sheep nothing is easier. A sheep's front teeth the first year are eight in number, appearing all of a size. Second year the two middle ones are shed out and replaced by two much longer than the others. Third year two very small ones appear—one on either side of the eight. At the end of the fourth there are six large teeth. Fifth year all the front teeth are large. Sixth year all begin to show wear—not till then.

us for other countries, this were a consummation devoutly to be wished. Would that our legislators and patriots (if any of this latter species still exists) might cease their political squabble and turn their attention to the development of this country.

But the thing we propose as better than immigration is to reclaim men from drunkenness and plant their feet on the solid ground of total abstinence. Convert a drunkard into a total abstainer and you have given your country a new man. This is the correct way to multiply the population. Make a man a total abstainer and when you take the census he may be counted in, but what right have you to count in the drunkard? Why at best he is only a drag on society, a source of expense and constant annoyance, and a disgrace to all concerned. Here is an opportunity for all our Temperance Societies to increase the effective number of our population. Bring them in—in to your glorious temperance brotherhood, out from the dens of vice and wretchedness. Fie on these immigration schemes! say we. Let us give more heed to the quality and less to the quantity. We need rather to improve the quality. Let us multiply the number of solid temperance men—let us increase their effective capacity so that when you receive into your societies a man who has been given to strong drink you may make him worth ten of what he was before.

Had we a prohibition law, and that law faithfully and effectively administered, this method of multiplication would have free course. But we have not yet such a law, and strong drink immigrates to this country as to a dry and thirsty place. Let us do the best we can with the law we have and show that we are ready for the law that we want—the law to wit of Prohibition. This we must have and the length of time which shall elapse before its adoption depends largely upon our temperance societies. Do not slumber or sleep but rouse yourselves to the work and “swing in the heavy strokes in order,”—Alliance Journal, Halifax.

KEEPING ICE.—You recommend a thick coating of sawdust on the top of ice in the ice-houses. CHAPPED HANDS.—Now is the time to have a bottle of glycerine in the house. When the boys come in from husking corn or picking up potatoes with chapped or cracked hands, there is nothing so healing to apply as this substance. A good preventive to sore hands is drying them over the fire every time after washing.

CHAPPED HANDS.

Not a few men have chapped or cracked hands, these cracks appearing on all parts of the hands, inconvenient, sore and troublesome. Few people have any idea of the cause or causes, and simply regard it as accidental, or worse still, providential. Now there is no accident in this matter, nothing beyond control, if we will but pay the price of exemption. The causes may not be the same in all cases. Generally it will be found that the victims are careless about washing the hands, seldom wiping dry, and exposing them unnecessarily in the cold air. A little care, by way of drying them before going out, might save much trouble and suffering. Again the free use of soap causes at least a part of this cracking and soreness. The soap destroys the natural oil of the skin, which, of course, becomes dry and hard and then cracks, as a natural consequence. If, after the necessary use of soap, or the action of lime on the skin, a little vinegar should be applied, destroying the alkali, a part, at least, of the result would be avoided. But, after the removal of this oil and after the use of the vinegar or some other acid, a little oily substance, as glycerine, sweet oil, etc., should be applied, restoring the softness of the skin, this cracking would be reduced.

Still, again, the free use of salt has much to do with this condition, producing an inflammatory action nearly allied to the salt-rheum. But shall we eat no salt? That is not demanded, and yet it is believed that most persons

They say the air must permeate it readily, or the ice will melt. Have you tried both systems? A Try Subscriber. [We have been in the practice of covering ice with rather more sawdust at the top than at the sides, because the servants, who procure the daily supply in summer, were not careful enough in their haste to cover all the ice sufficiently, but would otherwise leave thin or bare spots. Free ventilation was given over the top. We have not tried the coarser material of chips from planing mills, but it would have the advantage of admitting a greater depth of covering in the case we have mentioned, and might answer if applied thinly where the covering can be carefully performed.]

MONTREAL PRESS.—In the Montreal despatch of our morning contemporary, this morning, by an error of the printer, we presume, it was stated that the Montreal Star was about to suspend on account of financial difficulties. The name of the journal alluded to should have been the Sun, and not the Star, which is, we are glad to know, in a solvent and flourishing condition.—Free Press.

That is not demanded, and yet it is believed that most persons use far more than nature requires for health. A moderate use of it will not produce this cracking of the hands or an unnatural thirst, as excess manifestly does, at least in most if not in all cases.

HOW TO PRESERVE FENCE POSTS.—The American Chemist says that a Western farmer discovered many years ago that wood could be made to last longer than iron in the ground. Time and weather, he says, seem to have no effect upon it. The post can be prepared for less than two cents a piece. This is the recipe: Take boiling linseed oil and stir into it pulverized charcoal to the consistency of paint. Put a coat of this over the timber, and, he adds, there is not a man who will live to see it rot.

Somebody put pepper on the stove during a late meeting of the Mitchell Town Council, and the Mayor has offered $25 for the unearthing of the fiend who did it. He rightly thinks that such pranks are not to be sneezed at.

A COUNTY DUNKIN BY-LAW.

We believe there has never before been such an agitation in favour of local prohibition, under the provisions of the Dunkin Act, as at the present time. In almost every section of the Province there are townships adopting the by-law, by a popular vote, and now the movement in favour of county by-laws has regularly set in. At one time there was a good deal of doubt existing whether a county by-law would be legal, and even if legal whether there could be the necessary machinery provided for its proper enforcement. Both of these doubts have now, we believe, been removed. The new License Act declares the original Temperance Act of 1864 to be in full force and effect, and the present Chief Justice, Mr. Harrison, has given it, over and over again, as his deliberate opinion that such a by-law is perfectly valid.

In regard to the necessary machinery for its enforcement we have only to say that the appointment of the County Commissioners and the County Inspector, who has full authority to prosecute, and is indemnified for all costs incurred, meets the wants of the case as well as they can be met by legislation. The want of some such officer, heretofore, was the weak point in connection with the enforcement of the Dunkin by-laws, wherever tried; and that want having been fully supplied there is every encouragement to go forward.

A County by-law was adopted in Prince Edward County last summer by a majority of over 600, when submitted to a popular vote. In several other counties the movement is now on foot for presenting it to the people. In Leeds and Grenville requisitions are being circulated to be submitted to the next meeting of the County Council. The same is the case in Hastings, and also in Northumberland and Durham, and in the County of York.

We are happy to announce that the initiatory steps have been taken in this County. On Saturday evening

TOWN COUNCIL.

NAPANEE, 21st Feb., 1876.

The Council met at 7:30 o'clock, the Mayor in the chair, all the members being present except Messrs. Gibson and James—the latter of whom is confined to his house from illness, the former being absent from the town.

As the session was expected to be a very interesting one, from the fact that they were to have the license law under consideration, the gallery and all the space outside the rail was filled with spectators, who were somewhat disappointed at the abrupt manner in which the proceedings terminated.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

PETITIONS.

Petitions were presented from Messrs. Marsden & More, John Soby, Robert McDonald, Charles Paisley, James McClure, John McMullen, John Phelan and James Culhane for Tavern Licenses. And from Messrs. Coxall & Paisley, W. R. McRae & Co., John R. Pruyn and Wm. Rankins for Shop

owing to the hard season through which we have passed, the amount could not have been much less. $1987.08 had been spent on the streets, and sidewalks, in keeping the streets in order, purchase of planks, cedar pickets, etc., and recommended as little improvements this year as possible. $6,338 is due the Mercants Bank, which would have to be taken up from the proceeds of Debentures. They found a balance of assets over liabilities of $11,211.30.

Also recommending the payment of $3.00 to James Emberson, Tavern Inspector, for costs incurred in the prosecution of two persons for selling liquor without license; and that $20 be paid to each of the Auditors for their services. Adopted.

The printing of the report was referred to the Committee on Printing, who were authorized to have it done by tender.

The Clerk reported the result of the vote on the By-Law raising the Tavern Licenses, giving the number for and against in each polling subdivision, showing the By-Law was defeated by a majority of ten.

MOTIONS AND GENERAL BUSINESS

Mr. Miller moved, seconded by Mr. Wilson, that the Street Committee have corner boards placed on the principal corners of the town, with the names of the streets painted thereon.—Lost.

Mr. Huffman introduced a By-Law regulating the licenses for the present year, the number of licensed houses, and the amounts to be charged.

On motion the Council went into Committee of the Whole on the second reading. Dr. Ruttan in the chair.

Mr. Miller moved, seconded by Mr. Joy, that the number of tavern licenses to be granted be filled in by inserting the word eight.

In amendment by Mr. Geddes, seconded by Mr. McNeil, the number be five.

The original motion was carried.

Mr. Spencer moved, seconded by Mr. Geddes, the blank for shop licenses be filled in by inserting the word four.—Carried.

Mr. Geddes moved, seconded by Mr. Bartlett, that the clause confining the shop keepers solely and exclusively to the sale of liquor, be stricken out.

Mr. Spencer said, in view of the large stock of liquors the shop keepers had on hand, it would not be doing them justice to shut them off on so short notice, but that if say six months could be given them he would go for separating the two branches of business, as he did not believe it was right to have liquor sold where there was groceries, but as matters now stood he could not favor the By-Law.

Mr. Huffman agreed with Mr. Spencer, it would be rather hard in the face of existing circumstances, to cut them off at once, but from the reading of the law no time could be granted for the disposal of their stock, and as he might not be a Councillor another year, he was going to see the winning of the

We are happy to announce that the initiatory steps have been taken in this County. On Saturday evening last there was a meeting of Delegates of the Workingman's Temperance Association and of the Good Templars of Napanee, with J. T. Grange, M. P. P., in the chair. It was resolved to call a convention of delegates from the various temperance organizations of the County, and the leading temperance men, to make the necessary arrangements for circulating requisitions, to be submitted to the County Council, asking for a popular vote at an early day. The convention will be held on Thursday, March 17th, and it is probable that active operations will be at once commenced. No doubt a determined fight will be given, but the opinion is prevalent that a considerable majority of the electors of this County favor the adoption and the enforcement of such a law at the earliest day possible.

THE MINISTER OF EDUCATION.

On Saturday last the Hon. A. Crooks, was sworn in Minister of Education, and at once he entered upon the duties of his office. He will for the present, at least, perform the duties of Provincial Treasurer, and also of his now position. Dr. Ryerson has retired from the office of Chief Superintendent of Common Schools, after a long and faithful service of over thirty years, during which time he has done excellent service to the country. He has been allowed his full salary as a pension, in consideration of the important service he has rendered.

TOWN COUNCIL.

NAPANEE, 21st Feb., 1876.

The Council met at 7:30 o'clock, the Mayor in the chair, all the members being present except Messrs. Gibson and James—the latter of whom is confined to his house from illness, the former being absent from the town.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

PETITIONS.

Petitions were presented from Messrs. Marsden & More, John Soby, Robert McDonald, Charles Paisley, James McClure, John McMullen, John Phelan and James Culhane for Tavern Licenses. And from Messrs. Coxall & Paisley, W. R. McRae & Co., John R. Pruyne, and Wm. Rankins for Shop Licenses, all of which, on motion, was deferred till a later stage of the proceedings.

From Philip Embury, clerk, asking a grant of $50 for his performances of the duties of Market Clerk for the year 1875, as a like sum had been granted in former years to that officer.

Mr. Huffman moved, seconded by Mr. Wilson that the prayer of the petition be granted. In making the motion, Mr. H. said that it had been customary in years past to pay the Market Clerk for his services as such, the Market By-law providing for the appointment of a Clerk, in which the duties of the Clerk were set forth. Mr. Embury had well and truly discharged those duties, and he thought he was justly entitled to the sum asked for. Objection being taken to the grant of the prayer, on the ground that no clerk had been appointed by the Council last year, Mr. Huffman withdrew his motion, and on motion further consideration of the petition was laid over for one week.

From Mrs. Mary Pringle, a poor woman, and in destitute circumstances, asking aid. On motion referred to the Poor and Sanitary Committee, with power to act.

From the Grocers and Provision Dealers of the town, who have no shop license, praying that no licenses be granted this year to shops, unless said shops confine themselves exclusively to the sale of liquors, as, by the new law, it was in the province of the Council to say whether it should be done or not. As Mr. Huffman had a By-law to introduce later in the evening regulating the matter, it was deferred for further consideration.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A communication was read from Mr. E. Vine, notifying the Council

Joy, that the number of tavern licenses to be granted be filled in by inserting the word eight.

In amendment by Mr. Geddes, seconded by Mr. McNeil, the number be five.

The original motion was carried.

Mr. Spencer moved, seconded by Mr. Geddes, the blank for shop licenses be filled in by inserting the word four.—Carried.

Mr. Geddes moved, seconded by Mr. Bartlett, that the clause confining the shop keepers solely and exclusively to the sale of liquor, be stricken out.

Mr. Huffman agreed with Mr. Spencer, it would be rather hard in the face of existing circumstances, to cut them off at once, but from the reading of the law no time could be granted for the disposal of their stock, and as he might not be a Councillor another year, he was going to see the running of the law properly while he was there.

The motion on being put was lost, the vote standing 4 for and 5 against.

Mr. Huffman moved, seconded by Mr. Wilson, that the blank be filled in by inserting $200 as the amount to be paid for each tavern or shop license granted.—Carried.

The Committee rose, and Mr. Wilson moved, seconded by Mr. Huffman, the report be received and adopted.—Carried.

Mr. Wilson moved, seconded by Mr. Miller, it be read a third time one week from to-night.

Dr. Ruttan moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Spencer, it be referred back to Committee of the Whole to have $150 inserted as the amount to be charged for shop licenses. He did not think it was doing the fair thing with the shop keepers, and characterized the actions of several members of the Council as being prejudicial and very unjust. His motion was lost, and on a call for the yeas and nays the vote stood.

YEAS—Bartlett, Geddes, McNeil, Ruttan and Spencer.

NAYS—Huffman, Joy, Miller, Williams and Wilson.

The motion was lost and so declared.

To this several of the members took objection, but the Mayor ruled, sustaining his ruling by the statutory law, that by a tie a motion was lost, it taking a majority of votes to adopt. Dr. Ruttan moved, seconded by Mr. Spencer, that the report be referred back to Committee of the Whole, for the reconsideration of separating the shop licenses.—Lost.

The motion for its third reading a week from to-night was then put and carried.

A motion was here made to adjourn, as considerable confusion existed, nearly ments for circulating requisitions, to be submitted to the County Council, asking for a popular vote at an early day. The convention will be held on Thursday, March 17th, and it is probable that active operations will be at once commenced. No doubt a determined fight will be given, but the opinion is prevalent that a considerable majority of the electors of this County favor the adoption and the enforcement of such a law at the earliest day possible.

THE MINISTER OF EDUCATION.

On Saturday last the Hon. A. Crooks, was sworn in Minister of Education, and at once he entered upon the duties of his office. He will for the present, at least, perform the duties of Provincial Treasurer, and also of his now position. Dr. Ryerson has retired from the office of Chief Superintendent of Common Schools, after a long and faithful service of over thirty years, during which time he has done excellent service to the country. He has been allowed his full salary as a pension, in consideration of the important service he has rendered.

The new arrangement of making the superintendency of our Educational department a position in the Government, subject to the direct control of Parliament, was for years advocated by Dr. Ryerson, as he was convinced that the system would be best for the interest of the schools. We also have reason to know that Dr. Ryerson was desirous of seeing Mr. Crooks appointed to the position, as he is a gentleman of fine education, of liberal views, and thoroughly Canadian in all his sympathies. Under the new arrangement, we hope and trust that our educational interests—among the most important that we have—will be well served.

OUR DIARY PRODUCTS.

The manufacture of cheese and butter has now become an important branch of industry in Canada, and it seems probable that the business will yet greatly increase. In nearly every section where our farmers have gone extensively into the dairy business they are finding it more profitable and less laborious than the old system of so much grain raising, while the fertility of their farms has been greatly improved by the recess and change of cultivation, requiring so much more seeding, and giving such increased motion, Mr. H. said that it had been customary in years past to pay the Market Clerk for his services as such, the Market By-law providing for the appointment of a Clerk, in which the duties of the Clerk were set forth. Mr. Embury had well and truly discharged those duties, and he thought he was justly entitled to the sum asked for. Objection being taken to the grant of the prayer, on the ground that no clerk had been appointed by the Council last year, Mr. Huffman withdrew his motion, and on motion further consideration of the petition was laid over for one week.

As Mr. Huffman had a By-law to introduce later in the evening regulating the matter, it was deferred for further consideration.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A communication was read from Mr. E. Vine, notifying the Council that he had appointed Robert Dennison, Esq., an arbitrator in his behalf for the settlement of his claim for land taken from him, he refusing to accept the sum voted him by the Council at its last meeting, and asking the Council to appoint an arbitrator on their behalf. Mr. Spencer moved, seconded by Mr. Geddes, that the Council proceed to appoint an arbitrator, in compliance with Mr. Vines' request. Mr. Miller moved, seconded by Mr. Joy, that the matter be laid over till next meeting for further consideration. Carried.

From Adam Crooks, Provincial Treasurer, instructing the Council in their duties under the new law. Filed.

REPORTS.

Mr. Huffman, Chairman, presented the report of the Finance Committee, after having examined the Auditors report. The following is a synopsis of the report:

They found an item of $241 due from the year 1873 on the Market Tolls, and recommended the Treasurer be authorized to collect that sum without delay. They also found $409.67 in the hands of the collector of Taxes for 1874, and recommended legal proceedings be at once taken to collect the same from said Collector or his surties. The Board of Health had spent $167.14 during the past year. A very large sum in the consideration of the committee, in the absence of an epidemic or any great amount of sickness in the town. $888.65 had been paid for benevolent purposes and maintenance of paupers during the year, which was a very large sum, but the report be received and adopted.—Carried.

Mr. Wilson moved, seconded by Mr. Miller, it be read a third time one week from to-night.

Dr. Ruttan moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Spencer, it be referred back to Committee of the Whole to have $150 inserted as the amount to be charged for shop licenses. He did not think it was doing the fair thing with the shop keepers, and characterized the actions of several members of the Council as being prejudicial and very unjust. His motion was lost, and on a call for the yeas and nays the vote stood.

YEAS—Bartlett, Geddes, McNeil, Ruttan and Spencer.

NAYS—Huffman, Joy, Miller, Williams and Wilson.

The motion was lost and so declared.

To this several of the members took objection, but the Mayor ruled, sustaining his ruling by the statutory law, that by a tie a motion was lost, it taking a majority of votes to adopt. Dr. Ruttan moved, seconded by Mr. Spencer, that the report be referred back to Committee of the Whole, for the reconsideration of separating the shop licenses.—Lost.

The motion for its third reading a week from to-night was then put and carried.

A motion was here made to adjourn, as considerable confusion existed, nearly all the members speaking at the same time, but was not put from the chair, as the business was not yet got through with.

Messrs. Ruttan, Geddes and McNeil, retired, however, and a quorum still remaining, a number of accounts were presented and passed.

The Council then, on motion, adjourned till next Monday evening.

Catarrh is a common disease,—so common that snuffing, spitting, and blowing of the nose, meet us at every turn on the street. Your foot slips in these nasty discharges on the sidewalk and in the public conveyance; and its disagreeable odor, contaminating the breath of the afflicted, renders them offensive to their associates. There is the highest medical authority for stating that with fully one-half, if not two-thirds, of those afflicted with Consumption of the Lungs, the disease commences as Catarrh in the nose or head, the next step being to the throat and bronchial tubes—lastly to the lungs. How important then to give early and prompt attention to a Catarrh! To cure this loathsome disease correct the system by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which tones it up, cleanses the blood, and heals the diseased glands by a specific influence upon them; and to assist, use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche. This is the only way to reach the upper and back cavities where the discharge comes from. No danger from this treatment, and it is pleasant to use. The two medicines with instructions are sold by dealers in medicines

KOLUM OF KOMIC'S.

- Fur-fetched—Alaska seal-skins.
- Try-ling affairs—Wrestling matches.
- Favorite jewelry of horse fanciers
- Studs.
- A barrel-organ—The "Brewers" Journal."
- A round of pleasure—A promenade concert.
- What class of people lie the most—Sluggards.
- Moving for a new trial—Courting
a second wife.
- Retiring early at night will surely shorten a man's day's.
- Our devil says he likes to work
after hours, because it is past-time.
- Jones says he loves two lively girls—Jenny Rosity and Annie Mation.
- "Oh, mamma," said the youngest darling, yesterday, "I tried to read, and I rode."
- A hint upon dress—He that wears a tight boot is likely to have a narrow understanding.
- Fact for the retiring—Cheek wins in this world, especially if the cheek is dimpled and rosy.
- Why should you be justified in picking the pockets of a vendor of engravings? Because he has pict-ures.
- Why is a church bell more affable than a church organ? Because one will go when it is tolled, but the other will be "blowed" first.
- "Birdie" is what a young husband fondly calls his wife, because, as he says, she is always associated in his mind
with a bill.
- "Shingle weddings" are now coming into fashion. This novel wedding takes place when the first-born is old enough to spank.
- What is the difference between an uncleanly servant and a chicken? Why none; for one is a fool domestic, and the other is a domestic fowl.
- A French widower says that when a Frenchman loses his wife it is at first a duty to cry over his loss, and then it becomes a habit, and finally a pleasure.
- A woman is very like a kettle, if you come to think of it. She sings away so pleasantly—then she stops—and, when you least expect it, she boils over!
- Somebody who writes truthfully and poetically says "An angel without money is not thought so much of nowadays as a devil with a bagful of guineas."
- "Bless you," said John Henry, with tears in his eyes, "she takes her own hair off so easy that perhaps she doesn't know how it hurts to have mine pulled out."

—What is the difference between an uncleanly servant and a chicken? Why none; for one is a fool domestic, and the other is a domestic fowl.

—A French widower says that when a Frenchman loses his wife it is at first a duty to cry over his loss, and then it becomes a habit, and finally a pleasure.

—A woman is very like a kettle, if you come to think of it. She sings away so pleasantly—then she stops—and, when you least expect it, she boils over!

—Somebody who writes truthfully and poetically says "An angel without money is not thought so much of nowadays as a devil with a bagful of guineas."

—"Bless you," said John Henry, with tears in his eyes, "she takes her own hair off so easy that perhaps she doesn't know how it hurts to have mine pulled out."

—Ode to my landlady—Two weeks' board bill.

Exchange—Yes. She under stanz a joke of that kind, and that's why you're a verse to meter, we suppose.

—Boy—Can I ride, sir?

Candidate—Got a quarter in your pocket?

Boy—No; but pap's got a vote in his'n.

Canadidate—Bounce in, sonny—bounce in.

—A purchaser of a river-side property asked the estate agent if the river didn't sometimes overflow its banks.

"Well," responded he, "it isn't one of those sickly streams that are always confined to their beds."

—"A lot of us young fellows," said an unfledged speculator, "put our money in stocks and lost it."

To which an old man replied:

"A lot of us old fellows put our money in stockings and haven't lost a shilling."

—"Pa, I guess our man Ralph is a good Christian."

"How so, my boy?"

"Why, pa, I read in the Bible that the wicked shall not live out half his days; and Ralph says he had lived out ever since he was a little boy."

—"Rose, my dear," said a mother to her daughter, "if you are so stiff and reserved you will never get a husband."

"Ma," retorted the young lady, "unless the poets tell fibs, a primrose is not without attractions."

—A little boy, aged four, whose mamma thought it right to refuse him something upon which his heart was desperately set, finding that there was no hope for him, burst into a passion to tears, and exclaimed:

"Well, then, what did they born me for?"

—A contemporary exclaims: "Wouldn't it be a good plan, when the various 'walkists' get safely through their trials of walking all sorts of times you $50 worth of good in health, mind, and worldly condition.

It is a large and sparkling literary and family paper—pure, instructive and amusing; half of its pages full of beautiful pictures, the other half containing the choicest reading matter; portraying with pen and pencil current events the world over;
historical, household, scientific and useful subjects; fun and fiction. Unsectarian and non-political—very similar and just as good as that great English paper, The London Illustrated News—going to every part of the world alike to all sects and parties.

For 1876 it will be a grand illustrated history (and the best) of the Centennial year.
JAMES PARTON, Chief Editor. A host of the best contributors.

An illustrated supplement extra every week.
Besides, every subscriber (whether for weekly or monthly edition) is presented with a choice of the three finest and largest oil chromos ever produced, viz :
"Beatrice," (a portrait by Guido); "The Snow Storm," (a landscape by Kauffmann), or, "Gold Fish, Fruits and Flowers," (by Ramsey); each of which is two by two and one-half feet in size, and produced in 27 oil colors.

All postage on paper, supplements and chromos prepaid.
THE ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY, in a single year, has attained the largest circulation save one among the illustrated journals of this country. This unprecedented record is a proof of its merit.

"If there is one paper that we can enjoy reading from end to end, that paper is THE ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY."
—The Capitalist, Detroit.

"THE ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY, of New York, is certainly giving its readers a wonderful amount of good pictures for the money."
—The Tribune, New York.

"We know of no paper in the world that offers the same value for the money as THE ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY."

Local News.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Workingman's Temperance Association, of Mill Point, on Thursday last 22 members were initiated. They are bound to scoop them all in up there.

Call and see our beautiful stock of new goods.
Spencer and Hogan.

OLDEN.—The friends of Temperance in the Township of Olden are taking steps for the passage of a Dunkin By-law in that municipality at the earliest possible day. We shall soon hear more of it.

CAMDEN.—The vote of the electors of Camden on the Dunkin By-law will take place on the 13th, 14th, and 15th, of March. The friends of the movements express themselves confident of success.

We will excel ourselves in spring clothing.
Spencer and Hogan.

ARDEN.—There will be an Oyster Supper served in the Arden Temperance House, in the village of Arden, Township of Kennebec, on Wednesday evening, March 8th. An invitation is given for all to attend and have a good social time.

KENNEBEC.—The Dunkin Bill for the township of Kennebec was voted on by the electors on Friday of last week, and it was sustained by a majority of 42, there being only 4 electors of the township recording their votes against it.

Just opening a beautiful lot of new Canadian tweeds.
Spencer and Hogan.

ANOTHER FREE RIDE.—The Trustees of the C Methodist Church, of Ham-burgh, have arranged to give a free ride on Monday evening next to all purchasing tickets at Napanee for their tea-meeting. Tickets to be obtained at the Drug store of Huffman & Son, Napanee.

A FREE RIDE.—Remember that all who purchase tickets for the Odessa M. E. Tea-meeting on Monday evening

SICK.—Charles James, Esq., Clerk of the Division Court, has been ill for some time, and confined to his house, but we are glad to learn that he is improving, and will probably soon be out again. W. V. Detlor, Esq., County Clerk, is also quite ill, but has been able, most days, to come to his office for a short time.

A CALL.—We understand the members of the Canada Presbyterian Church, of this town, have given a call to the Rev. Mr. Young, of Valleyfield Province of Quebec. The rev. gentleman a few weeks since preached a sermon to the congregation, giving such satisfaction that a unanimous call was given him. We understand him to be a very able speaker, and an earnest worker in the cause of Christ. He is a Scotchman by birth, and speaks Gaelic just as fluently as English.

DUNKIN IN ERNETTOWN.—The vote of the electors of Ernesttown on the Dunkin by-law commences to-morrow morning and will continue on Saturday and Monday as well. From all that we can learn the temperance men have it in their power to carry the by-law by a good majority if they bestir themselves. If any have not voted when this reaches them, or have friends who have not, let them not forget that the opposition will leave no stone unturned. Every man should do his duty.

MONEY TO LOAN.—As will be seen by advertisement in another column, H. M. Wright, Esq., has been appointed agent for Napanee and Counties for the North of Scotland Canadian Mortgage Company, and is authorized to loan sums to any amount on approved mortgage security. The terms of loaning are very reasonable, and the interest is not required in advance, being so arranged as to pay yearly or half yearly, so that this will be a great inducement to parties desiring loans.

Alive still. Not dead yet, at Close's Mills.
So get along with your grists. 48-2in.

PROFESSOR ANDERSON.—The Wizard of the North, with his company, gives two entertainments at the Music Hall here, on the nights of Monday and Tuesday next, 28th and 29th insts. Professor Anderson is said to be without an equal since the days of his father, whose name as "the Wizard of the North" he now bears. The company have become great favorites throughout Canada.

FROM MORVEN.

THE WEATHER.—The most unusual thing about this locality is the strange winter, but I am happy to say we are a contented people and take it as it comes, instead of finding fault with providence for it as some people do.

MASONIC.—The funeral of the late Wm Sharp, who was drowned in Hay Bay a few weeks ago, was conducted in the M. E. Church here, under the auspices of Union Lodge, No. 9, A. F. and A. M., of which deceased was a member. Worthy Brother, F. B. Stratton, preached a very eloquent and telling sermon, which those who heard will long remember. Deceased was buried with Masonic honors, at Violet, by W. Bro. B. S. Abrams. The funeral services of Master Sharp, was conducted by Rev. G. S. White immediately after Rev. Stratton's discourse in the same place.

OUR SINGING SCHOOL is in a flourishing condition, under the able management of Mr. Clancy, having nearly one hundred pupils. Who could help but learn to sing under so able a tutor as Mr. Clancy?

LECTURE POSTPONED.—Owing to the heavy snow storm on Tuesday last, Bishop Carman's lecture on "Trade and get Rich," and Rev. Mr. Stratton's Juvenile Concert has been postponed until Friday, Feb. 25th, although there were considerable many who turned out through the storm for fear of missing the rare treat. Bishop Carman made a few remarks on the subject "disappointment," which completely ventilated the subject, as only the Bishop can do, and Mr. Stratton gave an exhibition of his singing class, to give the people present an idea what might be expected on Friday, the 25th, when his singers will be all present. We promise all who may attend an entertainment which we think can scarcely be beaten in cities.

OUR PASTOR.—The eloquent and faithful Mr. Stratton is fast gaining the affection of both Jew and Gentile. His pleasing, friendly, affable manners, eloquent telling sermons, his untiring endeavors to further the cause of Christ, is winning him general favor. We earnestly pray his life may long be spared, and the Executive will honor the earnest wishes of his many friends by leaving him with us at Morven.

A FREE RIDE.—Remember that all who purchase tickets for the Odessa M. E. Tea-meeting on Monday evening next, of Messrs. Potter & Bro, or J. C. Bogert, of Napanee, will be entitled to a free ride of 24 miles, and a first class church tea-meeting, all for 50 cents. It is a chance that does not often occur.

Just opening 30 pieces of the finest worsted clothing ever seen in Napanee.

Spencer and Hogan.

We understand an effort is being made to start branch lodges of the Workingman's Temperance Association in Odessa, Newburgh, Napane Mills, and elsewhere in the county. The Association will be sure to take with workingmen wherever introduced, and will result in much good to the community.

W. M. T. A. ANNIVERSARY.—Don't forget the literary entertainment of the Workingman's Temperance Association, on Thursday next, 2nd March,—the first anniversary of their organization. A choice programme of entertainment has been prepared, and a rare evening's enjoyment may be expected. The admission fee has been fixed at the low price of 10 cents so that all may attend.

DUKIN IN MILL POINT.—At the regular meeting of the municipal Council Mill Point, held Monday evening last, a petition signed by 86 men and 191 women, was laid before them, praying the Council to pass a By-Law prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in the municipality in accordance with the provisions of the act of 1864. The Council manimously adopted such a law which comes into effect on the first day of March. Bravo, say we.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.—"First Lennox" Grange P. of H. was organized at Adolphustown Village on Thursday, 10th Feby., by Mitchell Neville, Esq. The following are the officers for the present year:—Elias Clapp, Master; Archibald Davis, Overseer; Joseph B. Allison, Lecturer; Fred. Mambery, Secretary; Thomas Trumpour, Treasurer; Danied Davern, Stewart; Mrs. Nelson Mallory, Lady Asst. Steward; Nelson Mallory, Chaplain; Marshall Davis, Gate Keeper; Mrs. J. B. Allison, Ceres; Mrs. Richard Carr, Pomona; Mrs. Jacob H. Roblin, Flora.

NEW FIRM.—The bankrupt stock of Mr. William McMullen has been sold to Messrs A. & C. R. Ashley who, we are pleased to know, intend to remain amongst us permanently. One of the members of the firm has been in business in Kingston for some time, and of his qualifications as a business man we can speak with confidence. They are clearing off the bankrupt stock at tremendous sacrifices, especially in boots and shoes and leather, in order to make room for a more extensive stock of groceries and crockery, glassware etc.

Among many strange things that happen now-a-days is that in Ernesttown, if a fellow catches cold, or is unfortunate enough to stub his toe and fall, strain his arms, horses run away, or such like, he only has to apply to our sympathizing Township Council and he gets redress for all his injuries. No need of friend Russell coming down here. If anything is wrong we only have to get our brother or friend to drive us to Odessa, lay our case before our Township Fathers and tell them it was the corporation's fault some way or other and we get our wrongs righted.

MANG.—At Napanee, on the 28th of January, the wife of Herman Mang, of a daughter.

DIED.

ALLEN.—At Marlbank, on the 17th of February, Matilda Burley, wife of Richard Allen. Aged 23 years.

WALSH.—At Tyendinaga, on the 21st inst, Elizabeth Walsh. Aged 38 years.

CHADWICK.—Departed this life, after a painful and protracted affliction, which she bore with Christian patience, at her family residence, Odessa, Ont., Feb. 2nd, Amanda Allen, wife of Mr. Allen Chadwick, in the 56th year of her age.

OTIS.—At his residence, Tyendinaga, on the 24th inst. William Otis, aged 65 years.

Workingman's Temperance Association in Odessa, Newburgh, Napane Mills, and elsewhere in the county. The Association will be sure to take with workingmen wherever introduced, and will result in much good to the community.

W. M. T. A. ANNIVERSARY.—Don't forget the literary entertainment of the Workingman's Temperance Association, on Thursday next, 2nd March,—the first anniversary of their organization. A choice programme of entertainment has been prepared, and a rare evening's enjoyment may be expected. The admission fee has been fixed at the low price of 10 cents so that all may attend.

DUKIN IN MILL POINT.—At the regular meeting of the municipal Council Mill Point, held Monday evening last, a petition signed by 86 men and 191 women, was laid before them, praying the Council to pass a By-Law prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in the municipality in accordance with the provisions of the act of 1864. The Council manimously adopted such a law which comes into effect on the first day of March. Bravo, say we.

INFZ FERNANDEZ.—The performance of this colored prima donna at the Music Hall on Saturday evening last was not a success, either in point of numbers or the entertainment furnished. In justice to the lady, however, it is nothing but fair to say, had a piano instead of an organ been used on the occasion, she could have displayed her abilities to better advantage. We believe her to be an accomplished musician, but under the circumstances cannot say anything of the excellence of the entertainment.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE.—Almost any day in the week small boys may be seen riding on the side-walks on sleighs, with a dog hitched to the sleigh, sometimes galloping along at a furious speed, much to the danger and annoyance of pedestrians. One day this week we observed a couple of boys on a sleigh drawn by a large dog, going at a dexterous speed up the front street, and when nearly in front of Mr. Jamieson's store a young lady was knocked down, getting a very severe fall, which certainly must have hurt her very considerably. If we are not mistaken, there is a By-law in force in the town prohibiting this sort of thing, and we think it high time it was carried out.

Thursday, 10th Feby., by Mitchell Neville, Esq. The following are the officers for the present year:—Elias Clapp, Master; Archibald Davis, Overseer; Joseph B. Allison, Lecturer; Fred. Membury, Secretary; Thomas Trumpour, Treasurer; Danied Davern, Stewart; Mrs. Nelson Mallory, Lady Asst. Steward; Nelson Mallory, Chaplain; Marshall Davis, Gate Keeper; Mrs. J. B. Allison, Ceres; Mrs. Richard Carr, Pomona; Mrs. Jacob H. Roblin, Flora.

For Sash, Mouldings, and every description of House furnishings, try S. Huff & Son's.

NEW FIRM.—The bankrupt stock of Mr. William McMullen has been sold to Messrs A. & C. R. Ashley who, we are pleased to know, intend to remain amongst us permanently. One of the members of the firm has been in business in Kingston for some time, and of his qualifications as a business man we can speak with confidence. They are clearing off the bankrupt stock at tremendous sacrifices, especially in boots and shoes and leather, in order to make room for a more extensive stock of groceries and crockery, glassware etc. We heartily recommend them to the public and bespeak for them a share of public patronage.

When you want Doors, Blinds or Window Frames, try S. Huff & Son's, Mill Street.

TEMPERANCE MEETING.—Mr Wm. Bell, the very popular temperance lecturer, from England, whose visit to Napanee a few weeks ago was received with so much satisfaction, is now lecturing under the auspices of the Grand Lodge of Good Templars, and will soon visit this County on his way westward. The following appointments have been announced for him, and we hope that large numbers may avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing him. It is seldom that so popular a speaker visits us: Collin's Bay, Wed. March 1st; Bath Thursday, 2nd; South Fredericksburgh, Town Hall, Fri. 3rd; Napanee, Sunday afternoon 4th; Newburgh, Saturday evening 5th; Napanee Mills, Monday 6th; Morven Tuesday, 7th; Wilton, Wednesday 8th; Mill Point, Thursday, 9th;

A girl inquired of the Mayor of Meriden, Conn., the other day, if he could not forbid her mother to marry again. she thought the police ought to be made to interfere.

fore our Township Fathers and tell them it was the corporation's fault some way or other and we get our wrongs righted.

It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in Packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homeopathic Chemists, 48, Threadneedle Street, and 160, Piccadilly London." 43

READ THIS TWICE.—Five or six drops of THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL, will cure common Sore Throat. It never fails in Croup. It will cure a Cold or Cough in twenty-four to forty-eight hours. One bottle has cured Bronchitis of eight years standing; recent cases are cured in three or six days. It has restored the voice where the person had not spoken above a whisper in five years. As an outward application in all cases of pain or lameness, nothing like it has ever been known. One bottle will cure any case of Lamé Back or Creek in the Back. For diseases of the Spine and Contraction of the Muscles it is unequalled. In Rheumatic or any other pain the first application does you good. It stops Ear Ache and the pain of a Burn in three minutes, and is altogether the best and cheapest medicine ever offered to the people—the cheapest, because it takes so little to do you good. It is composed of six of the best oils known, and nothing but oils. Is worth its weight in gold. Why not buy it today?—A. B. Des ROCHERS, assistant postmaster, Arthabaskaville, P. Q., writes:—"Thirteen years ago I was seized by a severe attack of rheumatism in the head, from which I have nearly constantly suffered. After having used 'Thomas Electric Oil' for nine days, bathing the forehead. I have been completely cured, and have only used half a bottle. This I can certify under oath if you wish."—Rev. J. MALLORY, of Wyoming, N. Y., writes "Dr. Thomas Electric Oil cured me of Bronchitis in ONE WEEK. Dealers all over the country say, 'We have never sold a medicine that has given such complete satisfaction as this.'"

Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cents.

Young People.

THE LITTLE BIRD'S SONG.

A little bird with feathers brown
Sat singing on a tree ;
The song was very soft and low,
But sweet as it could be.

And all the people passing by Looked up to see the bird
That made the sweetest melody
That ever they had heard.

But all the bright eyes looked in vain,
For birdie was so small,
And with a modest dark brown coat,
He made no show at all.

"Why, father," little Gracie said,
"Where can that birdie be ?
If I could sing a song like that,
I'd sit where folks could see."

"I hope my little girl will learn
A lesson from the bird,
And try to do what good she can,
Not to be seen or heard.

"Thus birdie is content to sit,
Unnoticed on the way,
And sweetly sing his makers praise
From dawn to close of day.

"So live, my child, all through your life,
That, be it short or long,
Though others may forget your looks,
They'll not forget your song."

LIFE.

Sweet is childhood—childhood's over.
Kiss and part,
Sweet is youth ; but youth's a rover—
So's my heart.
Sweet is rest ; but by all showing Toil is nigh.
We must go. Alas ! the going ;
Say 'Good bye.'

THE LONGEST WORD.

Rod," said Tom, "which is the most dangerous word to pronounce in the English language ?"

"Don't know," said Rod, "unless it's a swearing word."

"Pooh !" said Tom, "it is stumbled, because you are sure to get a tumble between the first and last letter."

"Valetudinarianism," said Tom, promptly.

"No, sir ; it's smiles, because there's a whole mile between the first and last letter."

"Ho ! ho !" cried Tom, "that's nothing, I know a word that has over three miles between its beginning and ending."

"What's that ?" asked Rod, faintly.

"Beleaguered," said Tom.

A DOG MAIL-CARRIER.

Who carries the mail from Os-tra-gounosh, away up on the Minnesota line, to the nearest frontier settlement in Dakota ? Why, Boss, a mongrel kind of dog, an apparent ultimate result of the mingling of every kind of dog found in the Territory. Boss, master a year ago was a drunken half-breed, who was paid $3 a trip in the summer, and $5 in winter for taking the mails a distance of some 60 miles. Boss' master was honest, and never purloined a letter, but he had a way of drinking on the road, and the mails were often belayed. Last January the mail-carrier never reached his destination, but was found frozen stiff in a snow-bank three miles beyond Jobley's Run. Boss was keeping guard over his master and the mail. Now Boss runs the machine in bad weather. All that has to be done is to take Boss and secure the letters around his neck in an oil-skin wrap, and away goes Boss to the end of the mail route on the biggest kind of a lope. There is no use of starving Boss, like people do pigeons, to get him to work, though he does expect a feed at the conclusion of his journey. No one as yet is intriguing for Boss' place. Sixty-two miles as the crow flies, carrying the mail through the snow, is not a position most office-seekers care for.—St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

THE CANARY.

In the town of Cleves a birdcatcher showed for some time a canary-bird, of which the tricks were universally known and admired in the surrounding neighborhood. The birdcatcher took the bird out of the cage, set it on his finger, and addressed it thus : "You appear here, dear Bijou, before very high and respectable people ; mind, therefore, that you do not disappoint the expectations they have formed of you." The bird seemed to listen the whole time, and remained in an attitude as if it heard the speech attentively, bending its ear towards the man's mouth ; when he ceased to speak, it twice distinctly nodded its head, and if ever a nod was knowing and full of promise, it was the canary's nod.

"Good," said the birdcatcher, raising his hat to the bird ; "let us see that you are a canary of distinction ; give

THE CANARY AND THE MOUSE.

At different times I saw a mouse running around my room. Always my canary would seem delighted, and would fly after him. I soon was sure that he had visited "Parson's" cage every night; for the seed in the morning would be almost gone. But I did not know how very intimate the bird and mouse were. One evening I returned home late. As I lighted my lamp I heard a noise in the cage. I was very quiet, so as to see what was going on. The mouse was there! "Parson" was fast asleep on his perch, with his little head tucked under his wing, and one leg drawn up under his feathers. The mouse ate and drank all he wanted, not seeming to care at all for me. Then he ran up the side of the cage, and along the perch where "Parson" was sleeping, and with his nose poked the bird in the side, and then looked at him out of his two shining little eyes. It was just as much as to say, "Wake up, little sleepy, and we will play." "Parson" did not seem a bit afraid. He took his head out from under his wing, looked at Mr. Mouse, and then tucked it away again. He seemed to say, "I am too sleepy to play. Go to bed!" Then the mouse jumped to the bottom of the cage, nestled into a corner and went to sleep. I was surprised very much at all of this, and very much amused. Had I seen it all it would have been almost too much to believe. But the little readers of "The Nursery" may rest assured it is all true.—Nursery.

THE CHILDREN IN WEST AFRICA.

In West Africa, a society in England has a school for poor native children. One day, in that school, a little girl bird out of the cage, set it on his finger, and addressed it thus: "You appear here, dear Bijou, before very high and respectable people; mind, therefore, that you do not disappoint the expectations they have formed of you." The bird seemed to listen the whole time; and remained in an attitude as if it heard the speech attentively, bending its ear towards the man's mouth; when he ceased to speak, it twice distinctly nodded its head, and if ever a nod was knowing and full of promise, it was the canary's nod.

"Good," said the birdcatcher, raising his hat to the bird; "let us see that you are a canary of distinction; give us a song at once." The bird sang. "Oh fie, that is too harsh; that sound like the croaking of a hoarse raven; give us something sentimental." The bird then whistled as if its tiny throat had become a lute. "Quicker!" said the man, "slower! All right! but what are you about with your feet and head? No wonder, Mr. Bijou. Bravo, little man!" All that was ordered, and of which he was reminded, the canary performed admirably at once. Its head and feet beat time and expressed not only the movement but the spirit of the melody. The tune itself seemed an echo of the soul, while true to the strictest musical laws. "Bravo! bravo!" resounded from all sides of the room. "And you show no gratitude for this praise?" cried the birdcatcher indignantly, whereupon the bird testified its thanks most respectfully.

"You have done a difficult piece of work, poor Bijou," said the birdcatcher when it had finished; "now do two or three more things, and then you shall rest; show the ladies how to make a courtesy."

The bird placed one foot behind the other, sank and rose again with perfect ease and grace. "That is right, my boy, and now for a bow." It made one directly, inclining its head, and scraping with its feet.

The canary's next trick was to play with a blade of straw, which it shaped like a soldier's gun.

"You have done all I told you well," said the birdcatcher; "now go to sleep while I take your place." The canary then pretended to fall asleep, first shutting one eye, then the other, then nodding and sinking so much to one side that many hands were outstretched to save it from falling, whereupon it sat up again directly and sank down as far on the other side. At last it remained so long in one position that the man ing would be almost gone. But I did not know how very intimate the bird and mouse were. One evening I returned home late. As I lighted my lamp I heard a noise in the cage. I was very quiet, so as to see what was going on. The mouse was there! "Parson" was fast asleep on his perch, with his little head tucked under his wing, and one leg drawn up under his feathers. The mouse ate and drank all he wanted, not seeming to care at all for me. Then he ran up the side of the cage, and along the perch where "Parson" was sleeping, and with his nose poked the bird in the side, and then looked at him out of his two shining little eyes. It was just as much as to say, "Wake up, little sleepy, and we will play." "Parson" did not seem a bit afraid. He took his head out from under his wing, looked at Mr. Mouse, and then tucked it away again. He seemed to say, "I am too sleepy to play. Go to bed!" Then the mouse jumped to the bottom of the cage, nestled into a corner and went to sleep. I was surprised very much at all of this, and very much amused. ### THE CHILDREN IN WEST AFRICA.

In West Africa, a society in England has a school for poor native children. One day, in that school, a little girl struck her schoolmate. The teacher found it out, and asked the child who was struck—

"Did you not strike her back again?"

"No ma'am," said the child.

"What did you do?" asked the teacher.

"I left her to God," said she.

A beautiful and most efficient way to settle all difficulties, and prevent all fights, among children and among men. We shall never be struck by others when they know that we shall not return the blow, but "leave them to God." Then, whatever our enemies do, or threaten to do, to us, let us leave them to Him, praying that He would forgive them, and make them our friends.

Accidents are becoming so frequent and common on the English railways that no prudent American should trust them at all.

All that was ordered, and of which he was reminded, the canary performed admirably at once. Its head and feet beat time and expressed not only the movement but the spirit of the melody. The tune itself seemed an echo of the soul, while true to the strictest musical laws. "Bravo! bravo!" resounded from all sides of the room. "And you show no gratitude for this praise?" cried the birdcatcher indignantly, whereupon the bird testified its thanks most respectfully.

"You have done a difficult piece of work, poor Bijou," said the birdcatcher when it had finished; "now do two or three more things, and then you shall rest; show the ladies how to make a courtesy."

The bird placed one foot behind the other, sank and rose again with perfect ease and grace. "That is right, my boy, and now for a bow." It made one directly, inclining its head, and scraping with its feet.

The canary's next trick was to play with a blade of straw, which it shaped like a soldier's gun.

"You have done all I told you well," said the birdcatcher; "now go to sleep while I take your place." The canary then pretended to fall asleep, first shutting one eye, then the other, then nodding and sinking so much to one side that many hands were outstretched to save it from falling, whereupon it sat up again directly and sank down as far on the other side. At last it remained so long in one position that the man took his hand away and laid it on the table, assured that it would sleep there quietly. Scarcely had he begun to display some tricks of his own than a great black cat sprang upon the table; seized the bird with her teeth, and spite of all resistance dashed with it through the window.

The birdcatcher was inconsolable for his loss, as he had gained his living many years through the poor little creature.

The Stratford Times mentions for the information of Mr. Mowat that in the past few weeks over fifty emigrants have been lodged in the Stratford lock-up to keep them from freezing to death, and something less than a half ton of bread and cheese has been devoured by them to keep them from starving. No emigrant has a right to come to Canada who can't sleep out at nights and live on love.

FARMINGTON, Ont., June 20, 1870.

I have been one of the greatest sufferers from the effects of Asthma, having had it in its most severe form for nearly ten years; for the last six years of that time I had not lain six nights in bed, for seven years had such severe pain in my left side that I could not rest on it, my appetite was gone, and I had swelling in the region of my stomach, and general weakness. This condition was constantly becoming worse, until last December, when I tried GRAHAM'S PAIN EXPELLER, although I had no hope of it benefiting me, I yielded to the persuasion of others. The first dose I took relieved the difficulty of my breathing, and before I had two bottles used I was completely cured, and have since enjoyed as good health as ever I did. MARK MOORE.

INSOLVENT ACT OF 1875.

In the matter of Wm. McMullen, an Insolvent.

Notice is hereby given that under the authority of an order made in this matter, by William Henry Wilkison, Esquire, Judge of the County Court of the County of Lennox & Addington, dated January 25th, 1876, I will offer for sale at Public Auction, at my office on East street, in the town of Napanee, on Wednesday the twenty-third day of February next, at two o'clock in the afternoon, all the rights of the above named Insolvent, in the frame shingle mill, and four acres of land thereto attached, situate on Lot number seven teen, in the eighth concession of the township of Richmond, in the said County of Lennox and Addington, north of Salmon River, held by the said Insolvent, under a lease thereof from one William Vader bearing date December 8th, 1874, to him, the said Insolvent, for the term of five or ten years from the first day of February, A. D. 1875, at an annual tender of $100. The lease includes water privilege for running the said mill, together with the use of water wheel and shafting, also a good frame dwelling house erected by the Insolvent at his own expense. The above property is adjacent to Vader's Mills, and affords excellent facilities for the manufacture of shingles.

The above lease may be inspected, and all further particulars obtained on application to me at my office in Napanee.

Dated at Napanee, January 26th, 1876.
